To W. L. Garrison.

Montreal Feb: 19th 1863.

Dear Sir

16 I have had the pleasure of receiving your letter and the parcel accompanying it by Mrs Mayo; both were unexpected and highly gratifying. You must not imagine however that I had been without a likeness of the friend who has done so much for the slave until I received that which you sent me; I have had one for some years.

I rejoice in your expectation of assistance from friends across the Atlantic and more in your saying "We shall go forward in our work with renewed hope and vigor

V32, P11A

"nor cease till every Slave be liberated from his chains."

I was much pleased with the book you sent me.
The Strictures upon the late Mr Daniel Webster is Strictly just.

"Since he miscalled the morning Star Nor men, nor fiend, hath fallen so far."
It is the most melancholy and disheartening subject upon which you have touched.

Should you visit Montreal next Summer I shall be indeed most happy to see you. I remain

Yours with sincere regard and respect

Sam Gale
